Opposite Party

The complainant, employee of the opposite party, has alleged that he was dismissed from service by the opposite party for an alleged misconduct without even paying the notice pay. He also alleged that no proper inquiry was held in respect of the alleged misconduct. He further alleged that the dismissal was given effect to by the Opposite Party without having recourse to the provisions of section 33(2)(b) of the Industrial Disputes Act during the pendency of a dispute between the employees of the Opposite Party and the Opposite Party before this Tribunal at No. IT/19/76.

The Opposite Party contended that the complaint would not fall within the purview of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act and that the action taken against the complainant is not connected with the dispute and hence there was no contravention of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act as no permission or approval was needed for dismissal. It was also stated that notice pay was not, in the circumstance, necessary and that the action of dismissal was taken after a proper inquiry.

By way of reply to the contentions of the Opposite Party the complainant reiterated his case as made out in the complaint.

At the hearing of the case, the Opposite Party remained absent and the complainant examined himself and one witness. The complainant stated that a general demand of the workers had been referred to this Tribunal on 15-8-76 and that on 17-10-76, a charge-sheet was given to him as per Exh. W1 to which he sent his reply. He stated also that at the inquiry no witness supported the charges in his hearing and his statement was not recorded in the inquiry and on 5-11-76 by Exh. W6 he was dismissed from service. Witness Vasant Amonkar stated that the inquiry against the complainant was said to have been initiated on the basis of a report by him (i.e. Vasant Amonkar) but he had not made any report at all against the complainant and that while he was at work he was called and asked to sign inquiry papers after being told that the signature was for recording the part that the complainant had been called and questioned.

Now, the pendency of the industrial dispute has been conceded by the Opposite Party in the course of the written objections to the complaint. Therefore, the provisions of section 33 are fully attracted. The contention of the opposite party, however, is that the complainant is not a "concerned workman". The schedule of the Order of Reference, which has been set out fully in the written objections of the Opposite Party, clearly shows that the dispute relates to wage structure, variable dearness allowance etc. Every employee of the Opposite Party would be very much interested in the subject matter of the dispute and would be a concerned workman. It would be idle to contend that any one workman, like, say, the complainant had no interest at stake in the dispute that had been referred to this Tribunal for adjudication. At the date of the reference he was very much interested in the pattern of wage scales and dearness allowances and also in the claim for lay off compensation. The contention of the Opposite Party that the complainant is not a concerned workman is therefore rejected.

It is not the case of the Opposite Party that before dismissing the complainant, approval or permission, as the case may be had been obtained from the Tribunal. The provisions of section 33(2) are mandatory. The payment of wages for one month is also mandatory. The mandatory provisions not having been carried out by the Opposite Party, the action of the Opposite Party in dismissing the complainant is clearly illegal and hence, cannot be upheld. The dismissal of the complainant is held to be inoperative. The complainant is entitled to be reinstated in service with full back wages till such reinstatement.

In view of the foregoing and under the provisions of section 33-A of the Industrial Disputes Act, the following award is made.

AWARD

The dismissal of the complainant Datta Shabi Khedekar by the Opposite Party on 5-11-76 is declared to be illegal and inoperative. The complainant is entitled to be reinstated in service with full back wages till such reinstatement.

The Management of
M/s. Menezes and Cia,
Menezes House, Rua Luis de Menezes, Panaji-Goa.

— 2nd Party

The Government of Goa, Daman and Diu, referred the dispute concerning the termination of the services of the first party workman by the second party management for adjudication by this Tribunal (vide No. LC/1/ID(103)/72-IT-28/72 dated 6th March, 1972) with the following schedule:

SCHEDULE

"Whether the management of M/s. Menezes and Cia., Panaji is justified in terminating the service of their workman Mr. Jose M. Gracias with effect from 8-5-1972;

If not, to what relief the concerned workman is entitled?"

On receipt of the reference, the case was registered and notice to the first party for filing the claim statement was served.

By the claim statement, the 1st party contended that in 1971 the workman of the second party formed a Union and served a Charter of Demands asking for service regulation, leave regulation, overtime wages etc., which was pending before the Conciliation Officer; the formation of the Union was resented by the second party which tried to put pressure on different employees to leave the Union; the first party workman was a member of the Local Committee of the Union and was working directly under the senior partner of the second party on a consolidated wage of Rs. 160/-; he also had to look after the cash and accounts of the Pharmacy and work as a cashier during the absence of the cashier; whenever he did so, the cash account was given to the cashier on his return or the clerk-in-charge; on 6-5-1972 i.e. Saturday, the cashier left the Pharmacy at 7.00 p.m. and asked the 1st party to look after the cash transactions till closing time at 7.30 p.m. which the first party had done: a little after closing time, the senior partner came and made some wild accusations against the first party and on the spot, an investigation was held, but nothing was found on the person of the first party; next day a showcause notice was issued to which the first party replied: the second party without holding an inquiry kept the workman under suspension and dismissed him from service; the dismissal was on account of Trade Union activities of the first party and had been taken without any inquiry and violating the rules of natural justice and so the order of dismissal be set aside as it is malafide and savours of victimisation.

By the written statement, the management refuted the case of the First party and, inter alia, contended that no demand had been made on the second party by the first party and hence there is no proper dispute for adjudication. It was also contended that Rs. 2/- were found short and two currency notes of Rs. 10/- and Rs. 5/- were found on the person of the first party and therefore, a showcause notice was issued; two witnesses who were present at the time have given declaration implicating the first party and that the first party has no case of any kind.

By the reply statement the first party reiterated its case.

After the case came up for hearing, the parties went on informing the Tribunal that settlement talks were going on. It appears that subsequent to the date of reference, the partnership had been dissolved and the business taken over on proprietary basis. That might be the reason for the long drawn up period before the parties could arrive at a settlement.

Now, however, the parties have finalised a settlement and have filed the terms of the settlement which they have termed as agreement. They have requested for an award being made in terms of the same.

The parties have agreed that a payment of Rs. 2,000/- by the second party to the first party, shall be taken as in full settlement of all the claim of the 1st party including reinstatement and back wages and the payment shall be made within 30 days from the date of the award and, in view of this settlement, the parties desire that an award be passed.

The 1st party gets a substantial sum of money about which he is satisfied. Both the parties having accepted this settlement, this Tribunal has no reason in not accepting it. It has been therefore accepted and the following award is made.

AWARD

The award is made in terms of the agreement dated 17th January, 1978 which shall be annexed to and be read as part of this award.

Dated: 19-1-1978.
